

2.5.2 - Does your university as a body provide events for local farmers and food producers to connect and transfer knowledge?

Evidence 2.5.2.1

The University Provided Events for Local Farmers

Our university sets up events where local farmers and food producers can meet up. These get together are opportunities for them to talk, share what they know, and learn from one another. We organize simple, helpful sessions to make it easy for everyone to connect and swap ideas. Our aim is to assist them in working together, exchanging knowledge, and making farming and food production better for everyone involved.